

Thieu Asks for Policy Meeting With Nixon

A Hard Shake Is Good for Democracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — He do under the circumstances. munched a cold hamburger and he jingled his keys and, reflecting on his beginning of Abe Fortas' downfall, he decided maybe a hard shake is good for democracy now and again.

It was Robert P. Griffin, a first term member of the U.S. Senate who first took up the fight against confirmation of Fortas as chief justice of the Supreme Court.

Now that Fortas has resigned from the bench, Griffin can manage a sympathetic word for the former justice and voice hope for the future of the court.

"He did restore some of our confidence in the Supreme Court by resigning," says Griffin, "though it was all he could do under the circumstances. It's a good precedent."

Provided Ammunition

While Griffin doesn't claim a single-handed victory blocking Fortas' ascension to chief justice last year, it was the young Michigan senator who provided much of the ammunition in the battle. He disclosed the fact that Fortas was paid $15,000 for lecturing at a summer law school seminar out of $30,000 in donations solicited by a former law partner, Paul A. Porter, from five men with far-flung business and financial interests.

The Republican senator's interest in Fortas the man has diminished now that he is no longer a justice. He avoids talk of whether the Fortas case should be pursued further.

"It's up to the Justice Department now," Griffin says. "He's a private citizen now. I'm not aware of what is in the Justice Department files."

Not a Vocal Role

Actually, Griffin did not take a vocal role in the congressional furor over the final controversy that led to Fortas' quitting—revelation that, while on the court, Fortas kept for nearly a year a $20,000 fee from the family foundation of Louis E. Wolfson, a man now serving a prison term for stock manipulation.

"My concern now is in the Supreme Court and how it weathers the storm," he says.

"There are those who believe the court has been seriously damaged, but this is not necessarily true. I believe that from this episode a great deal of encouragement can be taken—that our system does work, the checks and balances. This illustrates that it works."

"You don't have to burn down buildings to make changes. Do it within the system."

Democracy, muses Griffin, may sometimes need to falter in order to survive.

"I don't advocate that, but it's probably true."

Sense of Mission

"So many areas of society have organizations which have been in existence a long time and which have people in authority who do their jobs in a perfunctory manner, lacking a sense of mission. It takes," he concludes, "something like this to show them what kind of responsibilities they have."

What about the successor to Fortas? Might there be a strong reaction in the Senate when the body is called to advise and consent?

First Griffin hedges the question: "I think the Senate will take it's responsibilities seriously." Then he adds, "You know, we even require Cabinet members to divest themselves of funds, and the requirements on the Supreme Court have just got to be more important than for a cabinet member who serves a short time or even for a congressman who must face reelection. The court is for life."

Griffin says he doesn't mean to "take on the Supreme Court in a general way."

"I haven't and I won't do that. I agree with most decisions of the Supreme Court."

Soviets Again Get to Venus

Second Unmanned Capsule in 2 Days Lands on Planet

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today that the second of its twin unmanned spacehips reached Venus 24 hours after the first and radioed back valuable scientific information from the planet's atmosphere.

The official Soviet news agency, Tass, said that Venus 6 came in 186 miles from the point where Venus 5 entered the hot and cloudy atmosphere of the planet Friday.

Tass said the second space-ship's instrument package made a parachute descent of 51 minutes, gathering data that was transmitted to Earth. The Venus 5 descent had been described almost identically.

Earlier Attempts

It was the first time that both spacehips in a twin Venus shot had made it to the planet. The Soviet Union attempted the feat once before, in 1965, but then Venus 2 missed by 14,880 miles while Venus 3 crashed after losing radio contact.

Tass hailed the twin flight as an "outstanding new success."

But available information indicated that the two craft failed to continue radio communication from the planet's crust.

The Soviet Union had unsuccessfully tried this feat before with Venus 4 which made a soft landing on Oct. 18, 1967, and gave the first on-the-spot report about Venus's atmosphere.

Supplemented Work

As far as could be determined from sparse and sometimes obscure official announcements, the two new spacehips only supplemented the work of Venus 4 and represented no major space breakthrough.

Tass did not say that radio transmitting capsules ejected by parachute from both craft made soft landings on the planet's hot surface, which had been an objective of the flight.

Tass reported that Venus 6 entered the planet's atmosphere 186 miles from the Venus 5 point of penetration.

"The spacehips' instrument capsule smoothly descended through the atmosphere for 51 minutes, carrying out various measurements and transmitting this data to Earth," the Soviet announcement said.

President Has Choice Of Details

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today he feels a meeting with President Nixon is a necessity in order to set up common policy in the present military and political situation.

Thieu, who met for more than two hours with Secretary of State William P. Rogers Friday, said of the timing for a meeting, "the sooner the better." He evidently would like it held in Washington if Nixon is favorable to the idea.

Thieu authorized this comment when newsmen asked him to state his position: "President Thieu hopes to have a meeting with President Nixon because he feels it is a necessity to set up a common policy in this situation—but not to try to impose on President Nixon when and where and how to meet."

Common Lines

Thieu declined to go into detail. Presumably he sees a need now to project common policy lines beyond the eight-point peace program put forward by Nixon in a speech Wednesday.

American officials from Rogers on down have sought to dispel reports there are differences between Washington and Saigon over the Nixon peace plan. Rogers discussed it with Thieu during their meetings Friday and said relations between the two governments "have never been better."

In a statement Thursday night, Thieu said Nixon's peace program was "consistent with the spirit" of the six principles he presented to his parliament April 7. Diplomatic observers said that was about as far as he could go publicly to show he isn't too enthusiastic.

Demand for Coalition

After the issue of troop withdrawals, one of the most critical problems is how to handle the demand for a coalition government put forward in the National Liberation Front's 10-point plan.

A high Vietnamese source says that no government with Communists in it will be acceptable unless and until the South Vietnamese have held free elections.

When Nixon suggested elections be held "as soon as possible" after an international supervisory body was set up here, it caused immediate concern in the Thieu government.

Apollo 10 Astronauts John W. Young, left, and Thomas P. Stafford, suited up except for their space helmets, prepare to enter a command ship trainer at Cape Kennedy in a practice session Friday of emergency actions they might have to take if their Saturn rocket fails Sunday as it boosts them into moon orbit.

Astronauts Eagerly Await Moon Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eager to start their voyage of orbit the moon.

The three veteran spacemen, Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan, launch crew prepared the rocket and spaceship to transport them a quarter million miles to orbit the moon.

The three veteran spacemen, Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan, are to ride into space at 12:49 p.m. EDT Sunday on the power of a 36-story-tall Saturn 5 rocket.

There was concern for several hours Friday night and early today that the flight might have to be postponed because of a suspected leak in the spaceship's fuel system.

Loose Connection

But the troubleshooting teams traced the problem to a loose electrical connection. It was tightened and the countdown continued.

The astronauts are to fly a pathfinder mission intended to clear the way for two Apollo 11 astronauts to land on the moon in July.

"Apollo 10" explained Commander Stafford, "is designed to tie together all the knots, to try to sort out all the unknowns and pave the way for a lunar landing—to do everything exactly as on the landing mission except the final descent to the lunar surface."

Flight Plan

The trio planned to spend the day in the crew quarters five miles from the launch pad, reviewing the complex flight plan and keeping track of the countdown.

They will have dinner at 7 p.m. tonight in the quarters with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Agnew is chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, which advises the President on space matters.

Mrs. Agnew planned dinner at nearby Patrick Air Force Base with Barbara Cernan, the only astronaut wife here to view the blastoff. Faye Stafford and Barbara Young will watch on television at their homes near the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Texas.

Final Countdown

Apollo 10 mission director George Hage Friday gave the go-ahead for the final countdown after reviewing the status of the astronauts, the Saturn 5.

Fröehlich Talks to AP

Lawmaker Cannot Be 'Rubber Stamp'

GREEN BAY (AP)—The legislature's pending debate over the proposed 1969-71 state budget is a prime example of issues to which lawmakers should be more responsive, a Republican leader told the Wisconsin Associated Press Association late Friday.

Assembly Speaker Harold Fröehlich, R-Appleton, told the gathering of executives from AP member newspapers that legislators should exercise more authority over such crucial matters as state budgets and pay less attention to the dictates of governors.

"I didn't go to the legislature to be a rubber stamp for anybody," Fröehlich said during a panel discussion on topics ranging from fiscal matters to Milwaukee politics.

Knowles Requested

Gov. Warren P. Knowles has asked lawmakers for a $1.6 billion budget for the biennium beginning July 1. Fröehlich said he tends to doubt legislators will finish debate before August on the governor's budget, tax-increase plans and appeals for the legislature to restore many of the items recommended for elimination by the Joint Finance Committee.

"Some funds will be put back in," Fröehlich said when asked to forecast the legislature's reception—possibly next week—of the finance group's recommendations.

But the full legislature, he said, may still have to find other areas in which to trim funds to keep tax increases to a minimum.

"It's time we start living within our means as a state," he said. "To do that, we've got to cut out some services—or not add as much as we'd like."

Asked what services he had in mind, Fröehlich mentioned the Home and Family Council and the state's radio communications schooling network operated by universities.

"Low Priority"

Both items have already been under fire by some tax-leary lawmakers as being possibly unnecessary, and Fröehlich said they have "low priority."

Legislators, Fröehlich said, should strive harder to make independent decisions. When a governor makes a recommendation, he said, "it is our duty to digest it and make our own judgment."

The legislature should stand on its own feet and "chew up" budget proposals, he said.

Lawmakers, however, have to delegate too much responsibility to governors and bureaucrats because they are burdened with the problems of being underpaid and understaffed, the Assembly speaker said.

City Benefits

Much of the legislature's approaching debate on budget requests may involve programs designed to benefit large cities such as Milwaukee. Fröehlich called Milwaukee "one of the higher priority items."

Milwaukee, he said, is typical of cities whose chief spokesmen are not influential in the legislature.

"The urban cities are not sending their best representatives to the legislature," he said.

Many Milwaukee politicians, he added, think the road to success is to establish a political name in Madison, then return to Milwaukee County for a higher-paying job with the city or county.

Leonard Advises Schools to Leave Rioters to Courts

MADISON (AP) — Jerris Leonard, an assistant U.S. attorney in charge of a Justice Department civil rights unit, says colleges ought to stop trying to enforce the law during campus disturbances and let courts do the job.

The former Wisconsin state senator, speaking Friday at a Police Department awards banquet, said universities and colleges should consider themselves a part of their municipalities, not as "extra-territorial communities."

When confronted by student disruptions, Leonard said, "school administrators should apply for injunctions. This takes the school out of the area of law enforcement where it doesn't belong."

Excessive permissiveness by parents and teachers, and an attitude of "cloistered existence" on the part of college officials, have contributed to campus disorder, the Republican said.

Athletics, Braves Executives Baseball Owners Tied to Gambling

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government records disclose owners of two major league baseball teams, the Atlanta Braves and the Oakland Athletics, have Finley Bartholomay stock ties with Las Vegas gambling casinos.

Baseball historically has frowned on any gambling connections since a World Series scandal half a century ago.

Three officials of the Atlanta Braves, including the club president, William C. Bartholomay, are listed on the board of directors of the Parvin-Dohrmann Co., which owns three Las Vegas hotels and casinos.

Finley Purchase

The Oakland Athletics owner, Charles O. Finley, bought an estimated $2.7 million of stock in the same firm last month, Nevada records disclosed Friday.

The firm, which also supplies hotel equipment, has been reported under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The casinos are the Stardust, Fremont and Aladdin.

Three of the firm's seven directors—Bartholomay, Delbert Parvin Foundation. The foundation's latest available tax reports report stock holdings in Parvin-Dohrmann Co.

Justice Abe Fortas resigned from the Supreme Court Thursday under fire for a $20,000 check from the family foundation of jailed financier Louis E. Wolfson.

Series Scandal

Baseball traditionally has avoided gambling ties since eight Chicago White Sox players were exposed in court as having agreed to lose the 1919 World Series to Cincinnati.

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, who became commissioner in the wake of the scandal, banned the "Black Sox" players for life.

Landis later forced New York Giants owner Charles Stoneham and manager John McGraw to sell their interests in a Havana, Cuba, race track.

Hatch-It-Yourself Project

Ducklings, Eggs Go to School

MENASHA — Baby ducks, unhatched, were saved early this week when a Menasha boy discovered a clutch of orphaned eggs in a nest near Eugene Street.

Billy Burghardt, 1305 Home Ave., saw several other youths throw a tin can at the mother duck while she was sitting on her nest. The can killed her instantly.

Young Burghardt looked into the nest and found ten little eggs. Although there were 11 originally, the youths who killed the mother were playing handball with one.

Burghardt, a junior high school student, picked up the nest and took the eggs home to see if any could be saved.

The eggs were placed at his home under a lamp for the night and were scheduled to be taken to an incubator at Gegan Elementary School.

During the night, four of the ducks wouldn't wait for the incubator and they hatched.

The small ducks and the remainder of the eggs were taken to the school late Tuesday, and since then two more have hatched.

Mrs. Roma Foreman, second grade teacher at Gegan, said five of the six ducks have survived. They are living in a makeshift brooder, which consists of a box, lamp and piece of glass for the viewers to see in.

"We're lucky to have saved five," Mrs. Foreman said. She estimated the ducks were found on the 27th day, and it takes about 28 days for a duck egg to hatch.

younger brother Robert, a third grader at Gegan, Mrs. Foreman said.

"He did a good job as midwife," she commented.

The school is feeding the new pets with duck pellets, oat meal and water.

As for the future of the ducks, Mrs. Foreman said a farm in the area raises Mallard ducks, and the five will probably go there.

However, a science fair is coming up at the school, and Mrs. Foreman said the ducks have a date at the fair before going to their new home.

Traffic Charge Against Attorney Dismissed Again

For the second time in 1 1/2 years, Appleton attorney Leon E. Jensen has seen the same traffic charge against him dismissed.

The charge won't be brought a third time, Calumet County Judge David H. Sebara ruled Friday afternoon.

Appleton police charged Jensen, 37, of 1807 Silvercrest Drive, with following too closely after his car struck the rear of a car driven by Harold Mares, 625 W. Prospect Ave.

The accident occurred the night of Oct. 30, 1967, in the 600 block of W. Prospect Avenue.

Jensen pleaded innocent and, since he is an attorney who practices in Outagamie County, all three county judges disqualified themselves. Sebara was named to preside at the trial.

This time, the dismissal "with prejudice," meaning the same case cannot be re-opened. The only other witness called by the city, according to the city courts, was the attorney's office, was the arresting officer.

Aviation Users Tax May be Used for Airport Building

Aeronautics Group Told Traffic Growing Faster Than Capacity

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — A users' tax on aviation is an almost certainty in the near future to finance airport improvements, representatives at the Wisconsin Aeronautics Conference were told here Friday.

George R. Borsair, head of the airport development program with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) in Washington, said there was little question a users tax would be imposed to finance the Federal Airport Act after 1970, with the only real question remaining that of the form and substance of the tax.

Borsair noted that Congress appropriated $30 million for airport construction during the 1969-70 fiscal year, while aid requests totaled $450 million.

Wisconsin's share of the appropriation will be $398,000, while the state had asked for $3 million, Borsair said.

He added that by 1980, some $5 billion would be needed to meet airport construction demands and another $3.4 billion for terminal construction.

"There is little agreement on how to proceed to solve the problem," he said.

Airport traffic is growing faster than airport capacity, Borsair added. "In terms of projections, 1975 is already here."

At an earlier panel discussion, James W. Ash, a director with the state's Division of Aeronautics, predicted that many existing airports will have to be completely redesigned unless runway approaches are properly protected to handle future air traffic.

Robert O. Ziegler, area FAA manager at Minneapolis, also stressed the land-use control discussed by previous panels.

Noise, he said, has become a critical problem at the smaller airports as well as the major fields.

Ziegler said there is a movement underway to try and force Chicago's O'Hare Field, the world's busiest airport, to close down between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. because of the noise.

Lawrence McCabe, head of the Minnesota Department of Aeronautics, said aviation was a growing cycle. "The more facilities you have at an airport, the more usable the field is and the more usable the airplanes based there," McCabe said.

Knowles Asks Cities To Help Fight Cuts In Proposed Budget

Governor Addresses Alliance

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov. Warren Knowles urged heads of 18 cities Friday to put bipartisan heat on the Wisconsin Legislature in an effort to salvage his badly slashed budget.

In a precedent-setting appearance before members of the Alliance of Cities — his first since it was formed in 1967 — Knowles reaffirmed his backing for the Tarr Task Force recommendations and bills arising from them.

"Let the legislature hear from you until a fair and reasonable budget is enacted into law for the benefit of all citizens of the State of Wisconsin," Knowles declared.

He advised the mayors and managers, including those from Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Appleton, Green Bay, Manitowoc, Menasha and Neenah, his office would be open for conferences, advising, "I will call in the legislators from your respective areas and in your presence discuss problem areas with them."

Fight for Budget

On the eve of the opening of the state GOP convention at Green Bay, where the governor's proposed budget and the cuts made by the Republican-controlled joint finance committee are likely to be debated, Knowles declared: "I'll continue to fight for my budget and keep the problems of the city on the front burner."

Knowles indicated there were strong differences of opinion between some members of the joint finance committee and himself, and claimed the group's actions hit hard at the state services most in demand.

The governor said unless more funds were budgeted for welfare and education, he envisioned a heavier load on the local property tax — something Alliance members have contended for weeks.

Shot in Arm

"My proposed budget was a shot in the arm as far as the cities are concerned," Knowles said, "91 per cent was for education, health and welfare." He said about 65 per cent would be returned to local governments to "prevent rising property taxes from rising out of sight."

Knowles said he backed bills which would revise the tax and shared aids distribution formulas, establish a boundary control board to rule on annexations, create a system of countywide assessing, increasing school aids, better housing for the elderly and the model cities program.

He warned unless the legislature, as a whole, restored some of the major budget cuts between now and July 1, the state and its cities stood to lose millions of dollars in federal funds due to the lack of matching funds.

"I don't want this to happen," Knowles asserted. "We already rank 45th among the states in funds returned by the federal government."

The governor said, however, he was confident the legislature in the coming weeks would examine his programs and find a balance point based on fiscal need and financial resources.

Knowles told mayors and managers he was hopeful a compromise could be reached.

Deplore Cuts

Knowles had asked to appear before the Alliance as did Douglas G. Weiford, director of the state's Department of Local Affairs and Development, who deplored the cuts made in his departmental requests and warned it would harm Wisconsin's urban growth.

"States have historically walked away from these urban problems and let the cities on their own," Weiford said. "It is time the state assist the cities and also strike a note of cooperation with the federal government to obtain available grants."

Aiming for 1970 Elections GOP Hopefuls Vie at Convention

GREEN BAY — The first 18 hours of the Republican convention here was largely spent socializing and the remainder of the time in all likelihood will be spent damming the Democrats and preparing for the 1970 election.

The first hours, however, did produce the expected news that state chairman Ody J. Fish, hartland, will seek a third two-year term in that post.

Fish, who engineered Gov. Warren P. Knowles' impressive campaigns for the statehouse, tipped his hand earlier when he accepted the chairmanship of the national state chairman's organization.

Also throwing a hat in the ring is Mrs. Ben Peckham, Madison, the party's first vice chairman.

Announce Candidacy

Fish and Mrs. Peckham announced their candidacy at the Friday afternoon session of the state executive committee.

Today, the convention gets down to its business, expected to be light during this off-year.

Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren, Green Bay, and Lt. Gov. Jack Olson sponsored social events meant to "win friends and influence people" for the upcoming gubernatorial race 18 months hence.

Warren is considered one of the party's leading young men and a prime candidate — in the opinion of some — for the first four year term for governor.

Olson, meanwhile, has had his eye on the state's top elective office for a number of years, but was prudent enough not to buck the popular Knowles.

Speculation

There was minor speculation that Knowles might announce his retirement in the near future, possibly here this weekend, thereby elevating Olson to the incumbent post and a front-runner for the 1970 nomination.

Also playing host at the Northland was Jerris Leonard, longtime leader in the State Senate, and presently occupying the top civil rights post in the U. S. Attorney General's office.

Leonard ran against and lost to sen. Gaylord Nelson last fall.

In other business, the convention's resolutions committee presented a list of 25 resolutions which will be presented to the full body this afternoon. The committee is headed by Dr. Robert Dahlstrom, Manitowoc County chairman.

"These should not stir up too much excitement. They lack even the traditional blast at the Democratic Party or an individual democrat."

Youth Placed On Supervision In Drugs Case

Possession of Marijuana, Sale Of LSD Charged

Strict supervision was ordered Friday afternoon for a 17-year-old Appleton youth who was found delinquent in connection with the sale of LSD and possession of marijuana.

The youth, who appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court following investigation by Appleton and Neenah police, was placed on two years supervision to the Outagamie County Department of Social Services.

Calumet County Judge David H. Sebora heard the case in place of Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr, of the Juvenile Court, who disqualified himself because he is closely acquainted with the boy's family.

As a condition of supervision, the Appleton boy was ordered to give up his activities in a band in which he played. One reason for the condition, the court said, was because of his poor grades in school.

Sold at AHS-East

Appleton police said the boy sold another 17-year-old youth a capsule of LSD for $5 last January at Appleton High School-East where they were both students. The LSD reportedly was used at a house party.

A 17-year-old girl who was at the party was taken to a hospital several days later, suffering from what authorities believed were adverse effects of LSD.

Two 17-year-old boys involved in the same incident were waived to criminal court on charges of possession of LSD. One youth was placed on probation for two years in January and the second youth will stand trial June 12.

The youth who appeared in Juvenile Court Friday was 16 years old at the time of the offense.

The marijuana possession charge against him was brought after a Neenah patrolman caught him smoking hashish in a pipe behind a teen-age recreation center the night of March 22.

The patrolman said the Appleton youth and two companions, one 17 years old from Appleton and the other 18 and from Kaukauna, were seated in a parked car at the time. The other two youths were not charged.

Hammer Found By Broken Door At ROTC Office

Appleton police are holding a hammer they said was used to break a door glass late Wednesday or early Thursday at the ROTC office at Lawrence University.

The hammer was found on the floor, just inside the door. A sergeant discovered the vandalism Thursday. A two by four foot window was broken, but there did not appear to have been entry into the building, police said.

Authorities also were informed that the window has been broken several times in the past, but reports were not made. Bricks and soft drink bottles were hurled through the window in the past, ROTC officials said.

Vandals caused several thousands of dollars damage at the military offices on the campus last December. The incident, still unsolved, is being investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Youth Gets 60 Days in Jail for Driving Record

Six traffic counts and a bad driving record cost a 20-year-old Appleton youth 60 days in the Outagamie County Jail Friday.

Gary Combs, 1136 E. Jardin St., arrested May 10 by Appleton police, pleaded guilty of driving after revocation of his license, attempting to elude police, improper use of license plates, failing to transfer his vehicle title, operating an unregistered vehicle, and reckless driving.

Combs led police on a chase through the southwest side before jumping out of his car on Peabody Street and fleeing on foot. Police took him into custody later.

$3,000 Error in Check National Guard Wedding Gift?

NEW LONDON — Uncle Sam sent Bruce W. Schoen, 327 E. Cook St., a $3,010.53 wedding present — by mistake.

Schoen is getting married today. Friday he received a $3,010.53 check in place of his normal $96 National Guard quarterly paycheck.

Schoen said his first impulse was to cash the check but he decided "that wouldn't be too good of an idea." Instead he returned the check to warrant officer Clarence Sipple, Appleton, who is in charge of finance for SE and MM Platoons of Co. D., 132nd Support Bn.

"The 5th Army's going to have a red face on this one," said Sipple. The check was issued by Army Finance, Ft. Riley, Kansas.

Sipple said a two-star general with 22 years experience gets only $612 for the duty covered by the check.

Sipple said he "went through the whole payroll," but there were no other errors. He commented that an error in placing a decimal point could occur easily but said he had no idea how the error occurred on Schoen's check.

Schoen said he has been in the National Guard "a little over two years." He said during that time "I've been shorted a couple of times but this is the first time I've been overpaid."

Schedule Displeases Bengtson

Packers Open With Bears

BY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent Sports Service

GREEN BAY — The Packers will return to the once-traditional home opener against the Chicago Bears, in their 1969 National Football League inaugural. Their first baptismal collision with the Bruins since 1964, it will be staged in Lambeau Field Sunday afternoon, Sept. 21.

It is the most attractive item on this year's card, released today by Commissioner Pete Rozelle, which otherwise leaves something to be desired.

The Bears, for example, will finish with six consecutive "cold weather" assignments and make their latest regular season home appearance in history, against the St. Louis Cardinals Dec. 21.

These factors Friday prompted Coach Phil Bengtson to observe, "We don't like the schedule very well. We realize it's hard for everybody to be satisfied, but we would like to have had more games in milder climates, where you'd be pretty sure of warm weather later in the season."

He didn't mention it, but the Packers' four Green Bay appearances also will be widely separated. They will be, in fact, spaced approximately one month apart — Sept. 21, Oct. 26, Nov. 23 and Dec. 21.

One thing appears certain. Green Bay's triple champions, who will be striving to rebound from 6-7-1 performance in '68, will find out forthwith whether they have the wherewithal to regain the NFL penthouse.

That debut against the Bears will be followed, in succession, by matches with the San Francisco 49ers in Milwaukee Sept. 28, the Vikings in Minnesota Oct. 5, the Lions in Detroit Oct. 12 and the Rams in Los Angeles Oct. 19.

After having run this gauntlet, the Packers encounter the Atlanta Falcons in Lambeau Field Oct. 26 before invading Pittsburgh Nov. 2 and Baltimore Nov. 9.

The Packers return to Wisconsin for three consecutive home appearances — against the Vikings in Milwaukee Nov. 16, the Lions here Nov. 23 and the Giants in Milwaukee Nov. 30.

Three more cold weather engagements will climax the schedule — at Cleveland Dec. 7, at Chicago Dec. 14 and that historic finale against the Cardinals here Dec. 21.

In his evaluation of the '69 agenda, Bengtson noted that he is happy with the Packers' initial assignment. "We like opening against the Bears," he said, "because we know that is a colorful and attractive part of our schedule."

"But we don't like to have so many home games late in the year. We objected strongly but apparently other factors were involved."

Bengtson said, however, that he had no quarrel with the formidable 5-g-a-m-e package which comprises the first portion of the schedule.

"There's no way of predicting who's going to be poor and who's going to be good," he reasoned. "As far as whether you play this one or that one at any given time, I've never been too concerned about that. Our main concern is that we would have liked to have had more home games earlier."

The Seattle Pilots, on the other hand, rapped three homers in the 11th inning — by John Kennedy, Tommie Harper and Wayne Comer — and they proved just enough to nip the rallying Boston Red Sox 10-9.

In other games, John "Blue Moon" Odom became the first seven-game winner in the majors as he and Oakland blanked Kansas City 5-3 in 11 innings and the New York Yankees rallied in the ninth to beat California 2-1. Detroit was rained out at Minnesota.

Epstein, an articulate 26-year-old who caused a great stir in 1967 when he forced Baltimore to trade him under a threat that he would quit, was rated a super-star of the future. But in two seasons with the Senators, he has hit a disappointing .226 and .234 with a total of 22 homers.

Epstein raised his average to .277 and his homers to eight against the White Sox and the third clout of the night with a man on in the seventh looked very satisfying at the time, tying the game 6-6.

But Chicago's brilliant rookie, Carlos May, slammed his 10th homer in the bottom of the inning for the decisive run.

Howard Homers Frank Howard had hit his 14th homer and Brant Alyea his third earlier for the Senators, but their last hope rested in the ninth with Epstein. There were two men on and one out when Allen grounded into the final two outs, and Epstein returned to the dugout in disappointment as Washington lost for the eighth time in nine starts.

Seattle barely avoided still bigger disappointments after its homer barrage and Don Mincher's run-scoring double for six runs in the 11th inning.

The Red Sox came back on Rico Petrocelli's 11th homer with a man on, two runs on a hit that got through outfielder Comer and Mike Andrews' sacrifice fly before Carl Yastrzemski struck out to end the game.

Odom won his seventh game against one loss with a seven-hitter, backed by Dick Green's two-run homer in the seventh off loser Mike Paul, 1-1, and Danny Cater's solo shot in the ninth. Paul didn't allow a hit until Bert Campaneris doubled with one out in the sixth before the A's broke loose for their eighth triumph in nine games.

Winning Runs Frank Robinson again was Baltimore's man with the bat as he singled twice to drive in one early run and set up another and then singled in the two winning runs in the 11th.

Foxes Rally for 3 Runs in 10th, Gain 10-9 Victory

Singleton's Squeeze Bunt Trips Bees

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The offensive versatility of the comebacking Stu Singleton doomed Burlington's ambition to extend the front-running Appleton Foxes' losing streak to three games Friday night.

Singleton, who had kept the Foxes in the game with a pair of home runs that traveled 350 feet or more apiece, laid down a perfect squeeze bunt of about 35 feet in the bottom of the 10th to give his team a 10-9 victory.

Singleton, who is on a .425 batting rampage after missing most of the 1968 season because of an injury, was one of 19 players employed by Manager Tom Saffell to nail down one of the wilder games in Foxes' Goodland Field history.

The Foxes battled their way to their 11th victory in 13 Midwest League starts despite committing seven errors and despite spotting the Bees three runs in the first inning and falling behind in the extra frame as a result of Roger Cain's 2-run homer in the top of the 10th.

Raps Triple Hugh Yancy, who had seemingly put the Foxes on the road to victory with a key 2-run triple in the eighth, started the climactic 10th by drawing a walk. Pinch-batter Ron Williams also walked. Pinch-batter Rod Pommers beat out a bunt to the left side of the infield, filling the bases. Roger Reid beat out a hit to the third baseman Joe Robinson, who held the ball — and unsure about which base to try for a putout — while a run scored.

Wayne Weatherly struck out, but Terry Parks unleashed a wild pitch enabling the tying run to score. Though first base was open, the Bees elected to pitch to Singleton, who dropped with an ideal bunt toward third.

Robinson hurried in for the pick-off, but his throw failed to get a sliding Ross Sapp, who pinch-ran for Pommers.

The game-ending run-batted-in was Singleton's fifth of the game and 11th of the season.

Jim Limke, the third Foxes pitcher, boosted his record to 2-0 with the win. Parks, the third Burlington hurler, was charged with the loss. Appleton starter Don Eddy, who was shooting for his fourth straight win, was the victim of poor support, as only one of the five runs off him was earned.

At 7:30 p.m. today, The Foxes and Burlington will play the rubber game of their 3-game series. Steve O'Neil is scheduled to make his first start of the season for Appleton.

Last night's thriller got off to a weird start, as four Foxes' errors in the first inning gave the Bees a 3-0 jump. The Bees added a fourth stunted tally in the third inning as an error

Oshkosh '9' Posts Win Over Neenah

OSHKOSH — Oshkosh High School (5-5) used a 5-run second inning to defeat Neenah, 5-3, in a Fox River Valley Conference baseball game here Friday afternoon.

The Indians' productive frame consisted of four of the five hits they were able to garner off Randy Strohmeier, two of the Rockets' three errors, a squeeze bunt and a bases-loaded walk.

Neenah (1-9) scored its three markers in the fifth, two coming in on Greg Schultz's single. The Rockets loaded the bases in the sixth but good relief work by Keith Berholtz squelched the threat. Marty Heling was the Oshkosh starter.

FOND DU LAC — Strong performances in the field events and the longer distance running events provided host Fond du Lac High School with its first Fox River Valley Conference track meet title in history at Fruth Memorial Field Friday night.

Both the 880 and mile relay records went by the boards. A Sheboygan North quartet, which for much of the spring had had trouble with disqualifications, put it all together for a 1:31.0 clocking in the 880 — slightly better than the former mark of 1:31.15.

An Oshkosh foursome stepped off 3:26.4 in the mile relay, the last event on the program, for the fourth and final record. The effort was one-tenth of a second better than the old standard.

First places in the meet were shared by just five of the 12 teams entered. Fondy and Appleton East each had four. North had three, Green Bay West, two (by double-winner in the hurdles, Terry Schott), and Oshkosh one.

The Cardinals enjoyed individual champions in the discus, where Rick Koeck flipped the platter 163 feet, 4 1/2 inches, and the long jump, where Dave Gustin leaped 21 feet — inch.

came home in 1:58.7 to topple the old mark of 2:00.1. Team-mate and runnerup Steve Zimmerman also eclipsed the former record as he was caught in 1:59.25.

Both the 880 and mile relay records went by the boards. A Sheboygan North quartet, which for much of the spring had had trouble with disqualifications, put it all together for a 1:31.0 clocking in the 880 — slightly better than the former mark of 1:31.15.

An Oshkosh foursome stepped off 3:26.4 in the mile relay, the last event on the program, for the fourth and final record. The effort was one-tenth of a second better than the old standard.

First places in the meet were shared by just five of the 12 teams entered. Fondy and Appleton East each had four. North had three, Green Bay West, two (by double-winner in the hurdles, Terry Schott), and Oshkosh one.

The Cardinals enjoyed individual champions in the discus, where Rick Koeck flipped the platter 163 feet, 4 1/2 inches, and the long jump, where Dave Gustin leaped 21 feet — inch.

Approximately 600 fans turned out to watch the meet, which was also televised by the Fond du Lac station. The two audio-records established during the course of the evening.

Fondy's tireless Gary Stark clipped 15 seconds-plus off the previous 2-mile run standard, when he left the field behind a 9:50.3 clocking. The lead with 14 points. The Vikings were in second with 8. Monmouth had five as did Knox while Ripon, Carleton and Cornell all had four. Grinnell totaled three points followed by Beloit with two. Coe failed to score.

Lawrence's Dave Frasch was defeated in the finals by Steve Hahn of St. Olaf.

Agee Leads Mets to Win Over Reds

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

In the adventure-filled seven-plus years since the New York Mets first dropped—and that surely is what they did—into the National League, they have endured some pretty awful performances by some of their employees.

But few were worse than the disappointment Tommie Agee was upon his arrival last year. Touted as the solution to the center field problem, Agee became a dilemma, batting a paltry .217 with three triples, five homers and 17 runs batted in.

A solution, he was not. But Manager Gil Hodges insisted that Agee was better than that. And so far this season, the boss has been right.

Agee tagged a two-run triple Friday night, keying a six-run Met rally that carried New York to a 10-9 victory over Cincinnati. His two hits lifted his batting average to .307 and his two RBIs gave him 19 for the year—two more than he managed all last season.

Atlanta Wins

In other National League action Friday, Atlanta tripped Montreal 7-5 in 12 innings, Philadelphia took San Francisco 3-1.

Foxes Rally to Win in 10th preceded a run-scoring double by Jim Clark.

Back in Running

The Foxes got back into the running in the third inning. With one man a board, Singleton slammed a long homer, some 60 feet off the right field foul line. George Hunter doubled and scored the inning's third run as Burlington was guilty of a pair of errors on Greg Howell's infield grounder.

Appleton took a 5-4 lead in the fifth as Weatherly drew a 1-out walk and Singleton belted a drive over the right center field barrier.

After Burlington re-tied the score in the seventh on a double by Robinson and a single by Clark, the Foxes appeared to be serving up the verdict by scoring two in eighth. Hunter walked and stole second. Howell walked. After pinch-batter Pete Lentine struck out, Yancy drove a 2-run triple to right center.

The Bees, however, weren't ready to call it a night, as they tallied twice in the ninth to create a tie. Greg Schubert and Sam Lovelace each drove in a run with a single.

Cain hit his 2-run homer—a long wallop to right center—in the top of the spectacular 10th. But the Foxes were to have the last word.

ST. PAUL—PAUL MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Where is Willie Horton? The 26-year-old Detroit Tigers outfielder, suspended indefinitely for not accompanying the World Champions to the Twin Cities, was expected to be back in uniform today against the Minnesota Twins in a nationally televised game.

Horton, who led the Tigers in home runs with 36 and batted .285 as they won the 1968 American League pennant, took himself out of a Thursday night game in the seventh inning against the Chicago White Sox and missed the team's charter flight to the Twin Cities.

And he had not reported to Tigers officials early today.

Manager Mayo Smith said Horton, roundly booed in the team's homestand before leaving for the Twin Cities, was under indefinite suspension "until he decides to rejoin his teammates."

Detroit General Manager Jim Campbell said "Horton is all upset. He's never been booed before. This was the first time."

Campbell said he talked with Horton's attorney by telephone, and the lawyer indicated Horton would arrive in time for today's game.

But Horton did not show up Friday night when the Tigers' 42nd game against the Twins was but only the top four in each team are counted.

"He was fighting the slump," said Smith, "and fighting himself. I guess it was an emotional thing with him. The harder he tried the worse it became."

Horton was batting only .213 and had struck out 34 times in 108 official at-bats before he jumped the team.

For every game he misses, it is costing him a reported $340 of his estimated $60,000 annual salary.

Detroit officials refused comment on a report Horton was boycotting the team because he wanted to be traded.

Chicago bombed Houston 11-0, Los Angeles rallied for a 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh and San Diego trimmed St. Louis 2-1.

The Mets had dropped behind 6-4 on a pinch hit three-run homer by Jimmy Stewart in the sixth inning. But New York and Agee, bounced right back.

With two out in the seventh, Ed Kranepool and J. C. Martin delivered run-scoring singles to tie the score. Bud Harrelson singled, loading the bases and pinch hitter Rod Gaspar singled for two runs. Then Agee unloaded his triple for two more and a 10-6 lead.

Those last two runs proved important when the Reds rallied for three in the bottom of the seventh, leaving the Mets clinging tenaciously to a 10-9 lead. That turned out to be the final score.

Tito Francona's two-out, two-run homer in the 12th lifted the Braves past the Expos and made a winning pitcher of reliever Claude Raymond, a Quebec native who received a standing ovation from the Montreal fans.

'Carty Homers

Rico Carty, who missed all of last year with tuberculosis, cracked a three-run pinch homer for the Braves and Coco Laboy connected for the Expos.

Richie Allen hit another towering homer and Philadelphia whipped San Francisco. Allen's two-run shot sailed high over field roof at the 350-foot mark for his sixth homer of the year.

Willie Mays hit his fourth and 501st of his career for the Giants.

Ken Holtzman pitched a three-hitter for Chicago's third shutout in the last four games and the Cubs exploded for a 10-run seventh inning to demolish Houston. The Cubs sent 15 batters to the plate and got nine hits in the big inning with Don Young, Glenn Beckert, Ron Santo and Randy Hundley driving in two runs each.

Willie Crawford's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth got Los Angeles past Pittsburgh after the Pirates had rallied for three runs in their half of the ninth to take the lead.

Pinch Single

Reliever Jim Brewer's throwing error allowed Pittsburgh's tying runs to score in the ninth and then a pinch single by Carl Taylor sent the Pirates into a temporary lead which lasted until Crawford unloaded.

Pinch hitter Ivan Murrell followed a pair of intentional walks with a run-scoring single in the last of the ninth inning that got San Diego past St. Louis.

Al Ferrara's second pinch homer of the season tied the score for the Padres in the seventh.

County Supervisors Endorse Senate Bill

Outagamie County supervisors Tuesday have endorsed legislation calling for the state to take over all costs, including construction, for any higher education campus in Wisconsin.

Under the senate bill, the board of regents could enter into an agreement with a municipality or corporation to construct or use buildings and furnish maintenance services, utility services including heat and supplies.

(The bill is an offshoot of a joint Winnebago-Outagamie proposal which was adopted by the Wisconsin Association of County Boards that the state take over all operational costs of the two-year colleges. The plan was drafted by the trustees of the jointly operated Fox Valley Campus at Menasha.)

Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, Assemblymen Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, and William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, will be urged to give support to the senate bill.

Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, and Winnebago Supv. Oliver Thomsen, Neenah, appeared before the senate committee on education to support the bill May 7.

The resolution Tuesday indicated it was important to have Outagamie legislators' support to gain passage of the bill.

Village Board Meeting

Contract for Dumping Okayed at Sherwood

SHERWOOD — A dumping contract for one year was authorized by the village board here this week with Leohr Brothers, route 3, Kaukauna. President Clarence Zahringer was given the go-ahead to work out the details of the contract, as the cost is not definite at this time.

It was announced that Town of Woodville officials turned down a proposal for exchanging fire protection for dumping rights, which was discussed at last month's board meeting.

David L. Wendland, associate planner for the Council of Governments explained the interim zoning ordinance okayed last month with a few alterations. Wendland pointed out the ordinance was according to statutes and only five board members could serve on the zoning board of appeals, not all members as agreed previously. The committee is composed of Scott Van Dalen, Gary Weyers and Thomas Wieseler.

Development Plat Rogalska presented a preliminary plat for the John Stumpf development on the former Nick Bruehl farm, which will be forwarded to village engineers.

Capt. Victor June, Calumet County police, discussed traffic regulations in the village, particularly enforcing the ordinance for bidding overnight parking during winter months. June explained that when laws are enforced by village constables, fines levied go to the village, and if enforced by the county, go to the county funds. He recommended that the village enforce the village ordinance, which will not go into effect until next winter.

In other business the board approved all liquor and cigarette license applications.

Attacked by Alliance

Conradt Criticized As Leader of State Anti-City Forces

MADISON — An Outagamie County assemblyman, who has 15,000 Appleton residents in his district, was singled out Friday by the Alliance of Cities as a leader of anti-city forces and "higher property taxes" in the Wisconsin Legislature.

He was identified as Assemblyman Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, and a member of the Outagamie County Board. William Beyer, former mayor of Racine and alliance executive director, said that Conradt had "done great harm to the causes of urban areas."

Conradt's name came up frequently as mayors from several cities let off steam over the ineffectiveness of the legislature to date to take positive action on Tarr Task Force recommendations.

Mayor Wallace Burkee, Kenosha, alliance president, said there were "real weak sisters" in some areas not giving their urban constituents the representation they were entitled to.

Conradt was hit by Mayor George Buckley of Appleton, who agreed with his colleagues that the Shiocton lawmaker had not been adequately representing the five largest wards in the city of Appleton.

"We have 15,000 people in those wards and Conradt has been voting against them," Buckley said.

Soliciting Supports

"Not only has he voted against annexation reform laws and the recommended boundary review board, but he has been running all around the assembly cities let off steam over the ineffectiveness of the legislature to date to take positive action on Tarr Task Force recommendations."

Mayor Wallace Burkee, Kenosha, alliance president, said

Jaycees Elect New Officers At Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — Tom Radtke was elected president of the Weyauwega Jaycees at a meeting Tuesday night.

Other officers named were Ron Wiesman, first vice-president, Russ Larson, second vice-president, Fred Maass, secretary, Bill Beck, treasurer, and Dennis Timm, director.

Ken Radtke, outgoing president, will serve on the board of directors.

The installation banquet will be May 29 at Hotel Weyauwega with special guest speaker, Andie LeTendre, candidate for president of the United States Jaycees.

The banquet will be conducted jointly with the Jaycees. Chairmen are Mrs. Russ Larson and Dewey Tangwell.

Beyer reported that any bill with an implication of new financing was being sent to the joint finance committee.

He said the legislature has been "handling a lot of junk legislation — that which is non-controversial — and really has not gotten to the meat of the session yet."

Beyer told the alliance that he and others representing the cities were making a daily effort to resist a shift by the state of more taxes to local units.

He advised that city officials who knew of legislators not supporting Tarr bills make it known in their respective areas that these people were not voting in their best interests.

Stockbridge Program

Testing in Remedial Reading Clinic Slated

STOCKBRIDGE — Tests for tests of word meaning, paraphrase meaning and word study reading clinic at the public school here will be administered next week, according to Mrs. Donald Ortlieb, instructor.

The testing is done at this time in order not to conflict with classroom testing. The same tests will be given for the post-testing as were given in the pre-testing, so an accurate interpretation of the results can be obtained.

They will measure important knowledge, skills and branches of elementary curriculum. The tests are intended to provide dependable measures of outcome, comparable from subject to subject and grade to grade, and, in the second portion, for use in connection with improvement of instruction, pupil guidance and evaluation of progress.

Reading ability, Mrs. Ortlieb said, is measured by means of

$3,000 Error in Check

National Guard Wedding Gift?

NEW LONDON — Uncle Sam sent Bruce W. Schoen, 327 E. Cook St., a $3,010.53 wedding present — by mistake.

Schoen is getting married today Friday he received a $3,010.53 check in place of his normal $96 National Guard quarterly paycheck.

Schoen said his first impulse was to cash the check but he decided "that wouldn't be too good of an idea."

Instead he returned the check to warrant officer Clarence Sipple, Appleton, who is in charge of finance for SE and MM Platoons of Co. D., 132nd Support Btln.

"The 5th Army's going to have a red face on this one," said Sipple. The check was issued by Army Finance, Ft. Riley, Kansas.

Sipple said a two-star general with 22 years experience gets only $612 for the duty covered by the check.

Sipple said he "went through the whole payroll," but there were no other errors. He commented that an error in placing a decimal point could occur easily but said he had no idea how the error occurred on Schoen's check.

Schoen said he has been in the National Guard "a little over two years." He said during that time "I've been shorted a couple of times but this is the first time I've been overpaid."

Youth Placed On Supervision In Drugs Case

Possession of Marijuana, Sale Of LSD Charged

Strict supervision was ordered Friday afternoon for a 17-year-old Appleton youth who was found delinquent in connection with the sale of LSD and possession of marijuana.

The youth, who appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court following investigation by Appleton and Neenah police, was placed on two years supervision to the Outagamie County Department of Social Services.

Calumet County Judge David H. Sebor heard the case in place of Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr, of the Juvenile Court, who disqualified himself because he is closely acquainted with the boy's family.

As a condition of supervision, the Appleton boy was ordered to give up his activities in a band in which he played. One reason for the condition, the court said, was because of his poor grades in school.

Sold at AHS-East

Appleton police said the boy sold another 17-year-old youth a capsule of LSD for $5 last January at Appleton High School-East where they were both students. The LSD reportedly was used at a house party.

A 17-year-old girl who was at the party was taken to a hospital several days later, suffering from what authorities believed were adverse effects of LSD.

Two 17-year-old boys involved in the same incident were waived to criminal court on charges of possession of LSD. One youth was placed on probation for two years in January and the second youth will stand trial June 12.

The youth who appeared in Juvenile Court Friday was 16 years old at the time of the offense.

The marijuana possession charge against him was brought after a Neenah patrolman caught him smoking hashish in a pipe behind a teen-age recreation center the night of March 22.

The patrolman said the Appleton youth and two companions, one 17 years old from Appleton and the other 18 and from Kaukauna, were seated in a parked car at the time. The other two youths were not charged.

Change Must Come From Youth

Black Civil Rights Consultant Needles Valley Campus Students

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — William W. Colby did his thing Thursday afternoon at the Fox Valley Campus.

His thing includes imploring students and others of the need to recognize the racial inequities being heaped on Indians, urban blacks and Spanish migrant workers in Wisconsin.

He made it clear remedies must be found soon, and "at any cost." About 25 students and instructors were present.

Colby has been working since February as a civil rights consultant for the State Department of Public Instruction. Most of his time is spent uncovering racial inequalities and urging students to eliminate them.

Faith in Youth

Colby, black himself and a former principal of an E. St. Louis, Ill., high school, indicated he puts his faith in concerned students and young adults to bring about social changes.

It will never come if "we have to wait for the old fogies," he said.

Colby warns that political and social change must come at any cost. "We cannot afford to live in a static society," he said.

However, he does not propose property damage, personal injury and violence to reach these ends. He despises the violent black and white militants that thrive on destruction as much as members of the Ku Klux Klan.

But, he challenged the Fox Campus students, if the change is important enough and nothing

Trumpet Player Will be Shiocton Concert Soloist

SHIOCTON — Ed Engle who plays trumpet with the Lawrence Symphonic band, will be guest artist at the annual Spring Concert scheduled for 8 p.m. Sunday in the high school gym.

The cadet band, concert band, Girls Glee club, seventh and eighth grade chorus and the fourth grade chorus will present selections.

Art projects created by the grade school and high school students will be on display.

Gary Tanouye conducts both vocal and instrumental groups. He has charge of the art show.

The Music Club will conduct a candy sale prior to the concert.

short of violence has worked, "do your thing," he said.

"If you must, sit in the dean or chancellor's office and ask for the changes," he said. "But don't throw him out," he added.

Colby praised students whose goal was bringing about changes with logical and practical demands, but criticized gun-toting militants interested only in destruction.

He charged the recent Milfin Street (Madison) demonstrations were publicized out of proportion and gave credit to the demonstrators. "They're beautiful," he said.

Noting students should push for "satisfying, functional changes which will produce a better way of life," Colby told the Fox Campus students that they were "complacent."

No Blacks

"You're completely insulated and isolated," he said, noting there are no black professors or students in the 700-member student body.

He told them of their lack of knowledge of blacks who contributed to the progress of this nation and urged a black studies program be instituted for the white students here.

"There are so many things you don't know about the blacks," he said. "The black studies would be good for you," he added.

Colby said the disruption at Oshkosh State University last fall could have been avoided "if it didn't have to happen: it was ridiculous," he said.

He said the administration should have gotten rid of the "trouble-makers" and then entered in a constructive dialogue. He warned that no college or university is safe from possible disruptions.

Grave Concern

One grave concern, he said, was where the militant trouble makers were getting their money to get out on bail and to enroll in schools.

Colby, who said he had a "swinging bachelor's pad" in Madison, told students that he would talk with them as long as they wished. He even invited them to stop in when in Madison for more dialogue.

"I'm not one of the sensitive, thin-skinned blacks that you've been reading about," he said, opening his talk. "I will shock you," he added, "but I will deal with it."

He challenged the students — how was he different from them. They had olive, pale or even brown skin while he had black.

Esler Confident of Jail Plan Approval

County Board Chairman Feels Action Will Satisfy State Demands to Fix Facilities

Outagamie County Board met Friday. He added: "We're Chairman Sylvester Esler is sending the state a copy of the confident that Tuesday's county resolution, and that puts teeth board vote to construct improvements into it."

Esler wrote Wilbur J. impatience state officials who Schmidt, secretary of the State have repeatedly threatened to Department of Health and Social close the present, inadequate facilities, indicating the county killed the safety building proposal and then voted 29-15 to resolution was enough to cool construct new and add to present state demands, Esler said, "def-

No More Extensions

Inadequacy of Jail Hit by Democrats

Outagamie County Democrats Thursday adopted a resolution denouncing the inadequate county jail facilities and calling on the state to grant no more extensions on deadlines for making improvements.

In a strongly-worded resolution, the County Democratic Party contended: "It is our county's responsibility to provide both secure and humane facilities for those it detains."

The State Department of Health and Social Services gave the county a 90-day extension March 21, but questions have arisen on whether that extension would hold up since the state was not satisfied with certain requirements the county must meet to get the extra time.

Public Thanks

The jail problem apparently was brought to the county Democrats' attention by Sheriff Calvin L. Spice, who was thanked publicly in the resolution for his efforts to resolve the problem.

Spice, a Democrat, has pushed for better facilities since he was elected in April.

In asking no further extensions, the Democrats complain about the lack of county action since 1962 when the facilities first were determined to be inadequate according to state standards.

1962 Recommendations

The State Division of Corrections made specific recommendations for improvements in 1962. Democrats say, but these have never been carried out.

In a separate resolution the Democrats also issued a sharp criticism for the Appleton Ellis Lodge's most recent decision not to initiate proposals to change the Grand Lodge's whites only clause.

They resolved "The Democratic Party of Outagamie County deplore the action of the Appleton Lodge of the Ellis Club, which overwhelmingly refused to recommend to its national organization the desegregation of that organization."

Open Bible Youth Plan Church Rally

The Fox Cities Evangelical Youth Fellowship will conduct a youth rally at the Church of the Open Bible, Assembly of God, at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Highlight of the rally will be the showing of a 30-minute color film, "No Greater Love." Filmed entirely in Vietnam, under combat conditions, it was produced for World Vision International, which cares for more than 26,500 needy children in 19 countries.

It has conducted an all-out aid program in Vietnam, for the past four years, distributing millions of dollars worth of relief goods and more than a half-million relief packets.

The film depicts the story of the Vietnamese helping the "people side" of the situation there.

Other features of the rally will be a special music by area teens and a Bible "sword drill," with representatives of the local co-operating churches competing against each other.

Sheinwold Don't Rely On Mistake For Entry

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Don't complain if your partner manages to lose every trick that he expected to lose. Some partners manage to lose some unexpected tricks too, bless their cunning little hearts. The partner you really need is the kind who manages to save a trick now and then. If you find one, watch over him like a hawk because some other bridge player will try to steal him from you.

When today's hand was played, South was threatened by the loss of a diamond, two hearts and a trump. He managed to lose all of them.

South took the ace of diamonds and led out the ace and king of spades in the hope of dropping the queen. When he had no luck, South took the top clubs and ruffed a club.

West shrewdly refused to overruff, and now South could get to dummy with the ace of hearts to ruff another club but then couldn't get back to dummy to cash the last club. Down one.

Should Use Force
 If West had overruffed declarer on the third round of clubs, dummy's nine of spades would have become an additional entry; but South didn't have to rely on an error to get this trump entry to dummy. After winning the ace of diamonds, South leads a club to dummy's king, and trump to the ace, a club to the ace, and then ruffs a club with the jack of spades.

West refuses to overruff, but now South creates an entry to dummy by force: he leads the deuce of spades.

West must take the queen of spades, can cash one diamond and can then lead a heart to dummy's ace. Declarer ruffs, another club with a high trump and leads the five of spades to dummy's nine. This draws the last trump and permits declarer to cash dummy's last club, assuring the contract.

Daily Question
 As dealer, you hold: S-9 8 3, H-A 10 5, D-6 4, C-A-K 5 3 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club. You have 11 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, barely enough for an optional opening bid. You decide to bid rather than to pass because you have A-K in one suit and ace in another — an especially fine high-card holding.

Your Problems

Her Roommate Is Great, but the Sloppiest

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is my roommate. She is the greatest. She is also the sloppiest. When she lived at home her mother was her maid. Here at school I am.

At the beginning of the semester she used to ask me to fix her bed when she was late for a class. I always did it. Then she began leaving the bed unmade and her clothes all over the place. When I'd get mad and chew her out she'd say, "Be a lamb. I've gotta get this paper in tomorrow," or "I've got a groovy date and I'm late now." Or, "I have a rotten headache." That girl had a million excuses. Two weeks ago I decided to ignore her side of the room until she cleaned it. Ann, it got so terrible I was ashamed to have anybody in. The orange peels, the half bottles of Coke, the cookies, the underwear, sweat-shirts, shoes, cigaret butts, newspapers — it was unbearable. So I cleaned up after her, like I swore I never would.

A month ago I signed up to be her roommate next year because we could stay in the same room and not have the mess of moving. What can I do about this miserable situation? — Wetnurse to a Slob

Dear Wet: Apparently you would prefer to live in a mess nine months out of the year than go to the trouble of moving. You must like the slob so much you figure the mess is worth it. So resign yourself to picking up after her or living in a junk heap because those are your choices.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on two letters which appeared in your column recently. One was signed "Sick husband, I urge you to do so. You might learn something that will change your life. Your husband obviously turns you off — totally. But is it possible that you turned him off — first? I don't know the answer and you probably don't either. But I urge you to try to find it.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1969)

Life Is Lonesome At 103, So Widow Seeks Husband

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Josephine Cook, 103 Tuesday, wants a husband.

"It's lonesome without a man," she tells nurses at a nursing home here, "and the only way I'll ever get out is to get a husband."

She put it another way in a note to the Syracuse Herald-American: "A lady, 103 on May 13, wishes a husband."

She celebrated her birthday Sunday with three daughters. Mrs. Ford Aylsworth, 65, of Syracuse; Mrs. Alfred Underwood, 82, of Leicester, Mass., and Mrs. Kathleen Keyes of Birmingham.

Her husband died 31 years ago after 55 years of marriage. They had eloped when she was 17.

Zoo Anxiously Awaits Possible Hatching of American Golden Eagle

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Officials at Topeka's Cage Park Zoo are awaiting the possible hatching of an American golden eagle.

Gary K. Clarke, zoo director, said his research has failed to produce any previous report of the breeding of a golden eagle in a zoo.

"This doesn't mean it has never happened, but it certainly would be very rare," Clarke said.

"We aren't sure, of course, if the egg is fertile. If it is, there are a number of factors that could affect it. And of those that hatch, not all of the baby eagles — even in the wild — reach maturity," he said.

HINTS FROM Heloise

BY HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

Here is one for the do-it-yourselfer whose family always tracks mud in the house, and for those who do not like those welcome mats that have to be washed.

We bought some ready-mixed cement and poured a two-foot square slab (about three inches deep) right outside our back door.

After the cement was poured,

we laid smooth pebbles about the size of a marble on the top. Then took our hands and mashed them down into the concrete about halfway. We let this dry for a week or so.

As we already had a concrete sidewalk, we set this to the right side of the walk in our flower bed.

When the kids come into the house, they now can wipe their muddy shoes — or if barefoot, this is a wonderful place to wash their feet with the garden hose, as the water will run down into the crevices between the rocks taking the soil with it. This is the reason for the smooth rocks. They won't hurt their feet!

We can use it to set our wet mop on to dry or even dust our broom off on it.

Any time we turn on the garden hose to water our flower beds or the lawn, we just spray the concrete slab with the "stuck-up" pebbles and it's clean as a whistle.

Mat Matlock

Dear Heloise:

I'm 11 years old but I have a dandy idea if you want something cute for your bathroom.

You can use any color of adhesive-backed paper that matches your bathroom. We have a blue bathroom so I used blue.

I took a piece of paper and drew three little fish and cut them out.

Then I wrote my name and my sister's name on two of them, and on the third one I wrote "guest towel."

Then I pasted these to the wall in the bathroom. The ones with our names on the tile under our towels and the guest label under the guest towel.

April Reynolds

Dear Heloise:

The easiest way I know to hang sheets is to shake them thoroughly when they come from the washing machine and fold them evenly from hem to hem. When placing them on my clothesline I fold them in half again. This leaves me with sheets folded in fourths. They take up less space on the line and when they are dry may be easily removed and folded.

When ready to put them in my closet, I put the clean sheets on top of the pile.

When ready to remove a sheet or two, I put my hand on the edge of the bottom sheet, run my other hand under the pile of sheets and jerk the bottom sheet out. This way I am sure that all of my linens are rotated and they last much longer.

By the time the top sheet gets down to the bottom, it is perfectly ironed and ready for use.

Mother

Dear Heloise:

I am so disgusted. I live in an apartment house that has washers and dryers where you put in your nickles and dimes!

Many times my neighbors and I have put our husband's hard-earned money in those slots and machines do not work. We have complained to the manager and he does not believe us. What can I do?

Budget

Dear Budget:

We get this complaint all the time. My suggestion is, instead of running to the house manager, leave a note taped to the washing machine itself. Leave your name and address on the note.

When the man comes to take your dimes and nickels out, he will see your note and usually refund your money by mail. I have checked with many sources and hope this is the answer for you.

At least your note will save that nice neighbor her money and madness.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a tip for picnickers that I got from a dear friend. Place your catsup, mustard or mayonnaise in the center of a piece of foil paper, fold sides and ends together tightly in an envelope style. When ready to use, clip off the end and squeeze out.

Saves taking jars and bottles with you.

Fortas Resignation Leaves Doubts

In his letter of resignation to Chief Justice Earl Warren Thursday, Justice Abe Fortas confirmed a report which had been circulating in Washington. The report was probably the reason President Nixon had advised the Republican leadership not to make a partisan issue of the Fortas affair, because it would end from its own weight.

Justice Fortas wrote that he had been part of an agreement with the Wolfson Family foundation which "provided that I would receive $20,000 per year for my life with arrangements for payments to Mrs. Fortas in the event of my death."

The defense of this arrangement by Justice Fortas will leave the ordinary citizen bewildered and distressed because of the traditional belief that the courts must be apart from economic involvements with society, and that the U. S. Supreme Court above all must furnish this example to maintain public trust in the courts.

Justice Fortas said that it was his opinion that there was no conflict between his judicial duties and the objectives of the foundation, to improve community relations and to promote racial and religious cooperation. He said he changed his mind in June of 1968 when he found that his work load was heavier than he anticipated and when he learned that Louis Wolfson was facing charges by the Securities and Exchange Commission. The letter of resignation still gives no answer as to why the first $20,000 was not returned until December of 1968.

Vietnam General Goes Too Far

The United States is flying the former South Vietnamese police chief, Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, to Walter Reed hospital for medical treatment, and Sen. Stephen Young of Ohio has protested. Gen. Loan is the officer who became nationally known when a picture of his summary execution of a suspected Viet Cong terrorist hit newspapers all over the country.

General Loan's act was no more or less brutal than what has been going on from both sides in Vietnam. In the heat of attack, it is not easy always to respect civil or human rights. Moreover, the Vietnamese have had no tradition of humane care of prisoners of war as Americans have. And

The announced goals of the Wolfson foundation are laudable ones, but Justice Fortas' acceptance of private income of that amount for the rest of his life must mean that he did not understand the historic place of the Supreme Court in American government, or that he proposed to disregard it. And to the Wolfson affair must be added the disclosure last year, when President Johnson nominated Justice Fortas to be chief justice, that he had accepted $15,000 in law lecture fees from sources which could have business before the Supreme Court. In addition, he had continued to act as a political advisor to Johnson after his appointment to the court.

The whole sorry affair has seriously harmed public respect for the Supreme Court despite Justice Fortas' language that he was resigning to "terminate the public controversy (and to) permit the court to proceed within its work without the harassment of debate concerning one of its members." The damage has been done, and certainly many public doubts will linger.

What must be decided now is whether there is a need for legislation to require listing of outside income of federal judges. Such requirements are badly needed for Congress, and the House has taken a half-hearted step in this direction. The Fortas affair suggests the public is entitled to more information to judge possible conflicts of interest in all branches of the government.

while the atrocities committed by the Viet Cong are no excuse for similar actions by the Americans or representatives of the Saigon government, it is understandable why they sometimes occur.

Perhaps General Loan qualifies for the medical attention at the expense of the American taxpayer. But we do not believe that we should be asked to pay for the transportation and expenses of his wife, four children, cook, chauffeur and military aide.

The episode once again raises doubts as to whether American men should be dying to keep in power a regime that believes in such privilege for the elite.

State Deserves Anti-Pollution Bonus

In view of the overwhelming support which was voted by the people of Wisconsin April 1 for the anti-water pollution portion of the ORAP-200 bonding plan, legislation advanced by Sen. Gaylord Nelson on the federal share of municipal anti-pollution projects should be of particular interest.

Though actual appropriations have not matched authorizations, the federal program now calls for federal aids to be divided among the states solely on the basis of population and on the basis of how states can afford their own efforts, as judged by per capita income in the states.

Should not the federal grants also recognize states which have moved into their own programs of aids to local governments for new sewage treatment plants? Sen. Nelson has asked. About 15 states now have such programs, Wisconsin being the most recent to join the list after referendum endorsement of the ORAP plan for $144 million in bonding in the anti-pollution field.

Sen. Nelson's answer is legislation which would provide sort of a bonus of a two-thirds increase in federal funds for states which are doing something about pollution through their own matching fund programs. The Nelson plan not only is fair but it also could bring about more state funding plans.

If such a bonus plan were adopted, Sen. Nelson estimates that Wisconsin local governments might receive up to 50 per cent of the cost of new sewage plants in federal help, in addition to the basic one-quarter share which the ORAP state program would provide.

In all of this, it should be remembered that one of the factors which went into the ORAP bonding was that the federal government has not delivered on anti-pollution authorizations. The state program, thus, has built into it a state advance of federal funds which are supposed to come in the future.

What is involved here is a fundamental review of the nation's spending priorities ranked against pressures of the defense budget and Nixon administration plans for a coordination of aids programs. As the voter response April 1 demonstrated in Wisconsin, programs to enable municipalities to step up the war on pollution should be moved up on the priority list.

Hats Off to Kaukauna School Board

The Kaukauna board of education is to be congratulated for hiring a blind man to teach high school English for the 1969-70 school year.

The teacher, despite his handicap, is determined to make a success of his life without relying on aid from his society. He can only achieve success through the understanding and willingness of men who believe everyone deserves a chance.

The blind man asked no special consideration, nor was given any as his qualifications were weighed against those of other applicants. Superintendent Julian Bichler and the school board felt he was capable of doing the best job for the city and students.

Some might worry about discipline problems, cheating and other difficulties in a class taught by a blind man, but the Kaukauna board felt hiring this man would make students realize some of the hardships faced by others and give students an insight into what can be accomplished through determination and willingness to work.

Teachers in the system wholeheartedly supported board action and it will now be up to students to decide whether they can rise above temptation and respond to this teacher's desire to educate them. Acceptance by the students will not only be a tribute to themselves, but to their new teacher as well.

everybody know what's happening in every committee meeting that is not concerned with a subject covered by national security regulations." — Rep. William A. Steiger of Wisconsin.

Looking Backward

Appleton Has Wicked People!

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for May 20, 1869.

Appleton, with all its boasted morality, contains some of the wickedest people outside purgatory.

Shooting, hanging or burning would be too speedy a punishment for them, for those no-soul wretches who rob the Cemetery of the shrubs and flowers, the vases and glasses planted or placed over the graves of loved ones by trembling hands and mourning hearts.

If this sacrilegious desecration and ghoul-like vandalism cannot be stopped in any other way, the authorities should place a detective on duty there with ample powers in the premises.

One other thing: Parents should forbid their sons from making the cemetery a playground.

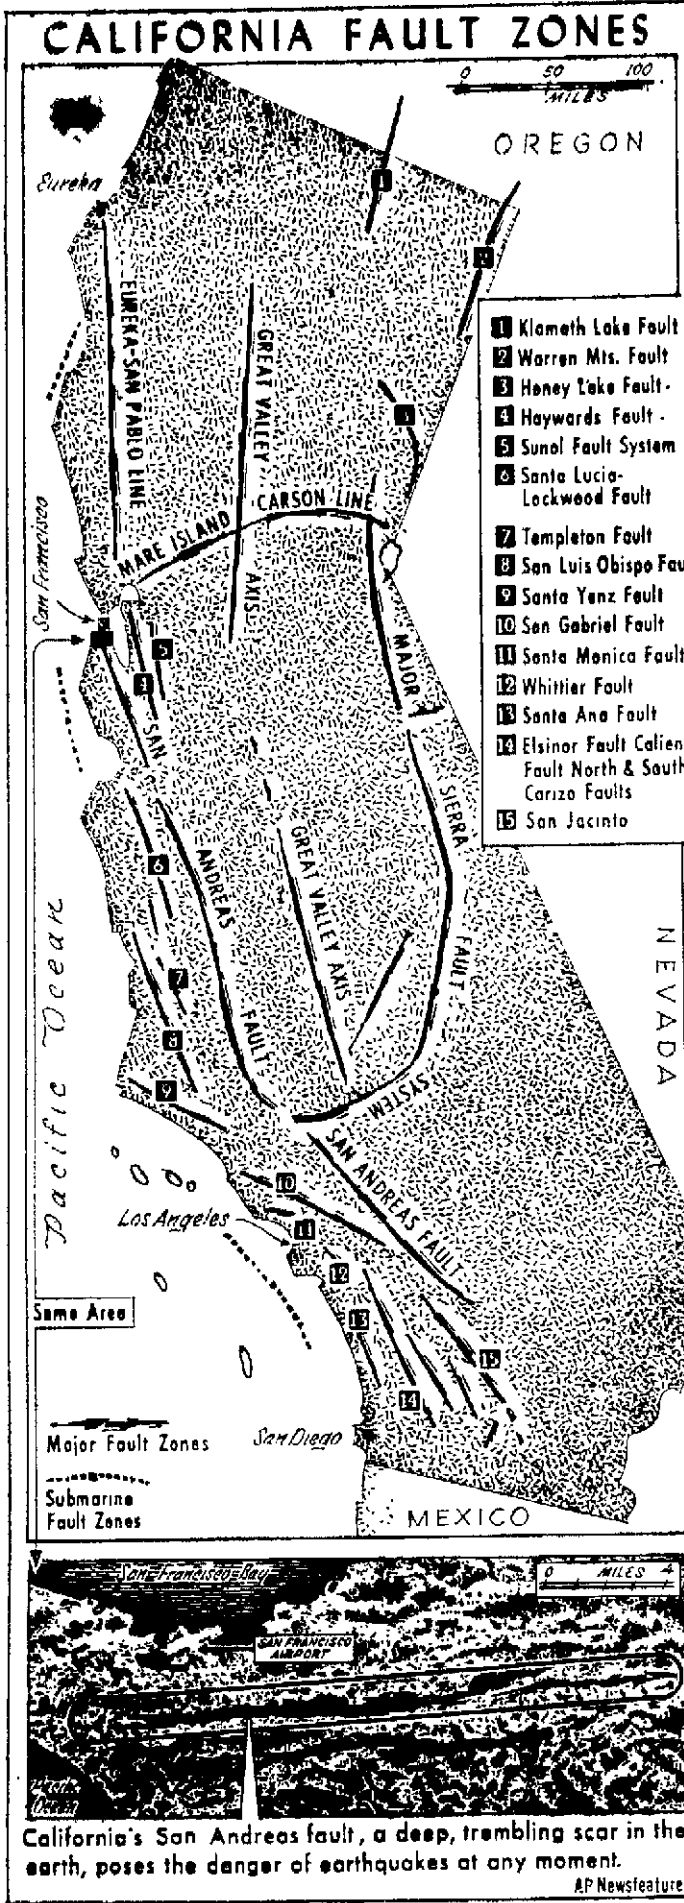

Isn't but a week since a tomb-stone was overturned and damaged to the extent of $25 by bad boys, and we have yet to hear that the mean fathers of the mean boys have paid for that or similar depredations committed by them.

The fact is, the cemetery should be removed, but while it is where it is, the authorities should stop at no expense to protect it from desecration and injury.

Why Did Appleton People Scorn Fast for Peace by LU Students?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am a Lawrence student who fasted 48 hours for peace on May 9, 10 and 11. About 100 students, faculty members and a few high school students committed themselves to the two days of fasting. The demonstrators were gone much of the time doing homework or other things but some were always maintaining the vigil in front of the chapel. The demonstrators were of all types but, to me, the demonstrators were not the most interesting ones.

The most interesting ones

New officers of Curtin Hall, drama organization at Appleton High School, were Robert Nolan, president; Theo Regenfuss, vice president; Paul Dohr, secretary, and Daisy Holtz, treasurer.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, May 16, 1959.

Soloists for the Wilson Junior High School concert that night were violinists Susan Spanagel and Kay Catlin, clarinetists Jean Grutzmacher and Carolyn Steinfeld, Tuba player Paul Kronberg, and pianists Carol Schumaker, Shirley Roehl and Marilyn Kimpel. The last two named also were to give vocal solos.

Mrs. Paul Dercks was elected president of the Little Chute Legion Auxiliary, Jacob Corpus Post. Other new officers were Mrs. Laverne DeBruin and Mrs. Cornelius Van Boxtel, vice presidents; Mrs. Marie Versteegen, chaplain; Mrs. Robert Hartjes, treasurer; Mrs. Wilbur Kone and Mrs. John Evers, sergeants-at-arms. Mrs. Paul Vanden Heuvel was appointed secretary by the new president.

Officers of the Kaukauna Catholic Women's Study Club for the year were Miss Lottie McCarty, president; Mrs. John Haen, vice president, and Mrs. Walter Hartzheim, secretary-treasurer.

were the people who drove by the chapel. The collection of four-letter words, cat calls and gestures could fill a dictionary. Very few people stopped to talk about their views. More just drove by slowly, staring at the while. But many yelled at us — swearing even in front of their children. I was not very surprised by the first hawks because I thought they were just exceptions, but when it continued with such great frequency, I just could not understand why the people of Appleton act this way. Maybe they did not understand why we were demonstrating. Maybe they associated us with the violent demonstrators elsewhere. Or maybe they just do not want peace.

I do not believe the latter statement. They must believe in and want a peaceful world. But this is exactly what we want, too. Why, then, all the problem? It must be a lack of understanding. Maybe by explaining why I fasted, some of the misunderstanding will be cleared up. Maybe I can explain my position and the position of many others.

I desire and am working to live in a peaceful country and world — everyone must want that. Sometimes war is a necessity and sometimes it is not. But war is such a terrible thing that I believe we, as a nation, must not let our readiness for war lead us into unnecessary conflicts.

As a questioning student, I have questioned the validity of the war in Vietnam and decided that it is not necessary. The war, it seems to me, is destroying South Vietnam and the United States, as well as North Vietnam.

It seems that most of the people living in Vietnam only want to end this fighting which has lasted for the past 20 years. Having thought this out, I want to explain to others what and why I believe. This war seems so obviously wrong that I either want to convince others or be straightened out myself. This is why I participated in the 48-hour fast-demonstration.

The problem was very few people stopped and talked but many drove by swearing and yelling "kill" and even "communists." I find these actions difficult to understand. Certainly, they do not believe in killing. All we were doing was peacefully expressing what we believed. Yet Appleton men came and pulled down our signs and tents, broke a table and a guitar, and tried to start

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For years, wags have joked of the collapse of California, land of hippies and Hollywood. Most meant it morally, not literally.

But more recently, there has been a very real danger of collapse in the Golden State — from earthquakes and landslides.

California lies in the world's prime earthquake belt, which runs around the rim of the Pacific Ocean, from Chile to Alaska and around to Japan and south of New Zealand.

The chief threat in the state is the San Andreas fault — a beneath-the-surface rupture in the earth's rock crust. The San Andreas system stretches three-fourths of the length of California, or about 600 miles from Point Arena on the Pacific coast 100 miles northwest of San Francisco to the Gulf of California. It cuts through San Francisco suburbs and skirts San Bernardino, 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

To the horror of some seismologists, rows of tract houses have been built astraddle some slight surface traces of the fault.

MANY QUAKE OCCUR

The Hayward fault is a branch of the San Andreas system of fractures, or cracks, in the earth's crust. The branch leaves the system about seven miles southwest of Hollister — the country's unofficial earthquake capital — and runs north for 100 miles through Hayward, Oakland, Berkeley and other populous areas along the east side of San Francisco Bay.

To the east is the Calaveras fault and in Southern California are the Garlock and San Jacinto faults. There are other, smaller ones.

Ninety per cent of the earthquakes in the United States occur in California — thousands every year. But only one in 10,000 does much damage.

San Andreas gave way in 1906, devastating San Francisco and a number of other cities as the ground ruptured for more than 270 miles. Average earth displacement was six to eight feet. Some 700 persons died in the quake and ensuing fires, with property damage estimated at $400 million.

GREAT TREMOR DUE

According to the U. S. Geological Survey's National Center for Earthquake Research at Menlo Park, Calif.: "Without knowing exactly when, we can say that between now and the year 2000 California and adjoining areas will have many moderate earthquakes, a few severe ones and perhaps one great one."

the much publicized 'cuts' in the budget recommended by the legislative Joint Committee on Finance. There seems to be a general impression that the recommendations would reduce the appropriations below present levels. This is not true. With one or two exceptions, such as the Department of Local Affairs and Development, every agency would have a larger budget in 1969-71 than in 1967-69. The reported cuts are from the governor's recommendations, not from present spending levels."

It is a correct, useful and necessary explanation, and it is a commentary on the quality of reporting in some quarters that this esteemed public affairs reporting service should find it necessary to make such a rudimentary explanation to its subscribers.

There may well be honest differences on the merits of the finance committee's recommendations for state expenditures during the next two years, as in fact there are.

KNOW THE FACTS

But there are valid doubts that all of those who are protesting so fiercely, even to the extent of noisy demonstrations at the Capitol (which probably do more harm to the cause of the demonstrators than good, understand precisely the situation which has made them so alarmed and angry.

The fact is that the committee budget — if it stands up, and that is extremely doubtful at the moment — manages a reduction of something less than 10 per cent from the level of proposed expenditures submitted months ago by Gov. Warren Knowles.

The supposition is that the governor's judgment in this and predicted that the state was to be hit by a devastating earthquake in April, or perhaps May. A recent best-seller, "The Last Days of the Great State of California," records the history of the state and describes how in 1969 an earthquake split California from the continent and how it sank into the Pacific.

California, however, is still there; shaking, perhaps, but standing.

But most scientists agree that a major earthquake in California is inevitable — sooner or later.

regard is somehow more respectable, or more credible, or otherwise preferable to that of the men who sit in the finance committee representing a coordinate branch of the state government, co-equal in powers and responsibility to the people.

Almost forgotten, moreover, in the fury of protest about "budget cutting" by the Legislature's committee is the fact that Gov. Knowles on Jan. 30 somewhat proudly related that he had cut the requests of the agencies represented in the budget by about $250 million. That speech is strangely ignored in the public discussions today.

In fairness, if the governor can find the requesting agencies wrong by such a huge amount, is not the legislative committee entitled to make its own judgment beyond that? To deny that the Legislature has such a duty, and right, is to suggest that the balance of powers arrangement provided by the constitution is to be waived.

BUDGET WELL STUDIED

Perhaps one of the reasons why the governor's budget request reductions attracted so little notice, and scarcely any criticism, was the mutual understanding of the parties that the requests were padded. Another likely reason is that the governor closeted himself and his staff behind closed doors, while the finance committee, under the rules applying to legislative processes, worked in the open with half a dozen or more reporters and agency special pleaders watching every hour of every day.

It is not the purpose of this report to judge the adequacy, or fairness, or realism, or lack thereof of the conclusions of either party. Tastes inevitably differ.

But it needs to be said that after having watched upward of a dozen Legislatures work, and none of them in such exigent circumstances as those that face the present Legislature's finance committee, this reporter can say that he has never observed a budget proceeding in the Legislature as prolonged and painstaking as that which preceded the reporting out of the new committee budget bill last week.

The committee appears likely to be repudiated, but it is entitled to an accurate portrayal of the labor it invested in its task.

U.S. Must Stay to Aid Vietnam, GI Says

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Recently I wrote a letter concerning the Army and Vietnam, which was published April 14 in the Post-Crescent. I would once again like the opportunity to express my views and opinions.

The people of the United States are a very dominating breed. We find it very difficult to let someone else "run the show." This is one of the bigger problems in Vietnam. The U. S. has more or less forced the South Vietnamese into an impasse role. Instead of advising and helping these people to stand on their own feet, we've taken over.

Now, judging from what I've read and heard, quite a few people, to include myself until a short time ago, "want out of Vietnam." The South Vietnamese are simply not prepared to stand alone, and we are partially to blame. These people need to be put in such a position so as to realize that they are the ones who are going to have to win this war and that the United States is only a supplementary force meant to provide assistance. Unfortunately, at present, the United States can hardly be considered a supplementary force in Vietnam. It definitely needs changing.

Even if the U. S. is somehow able to achieve some type of victory in Vietnam, what is to prevent the same thing from happening all over again after our withdrawal if the South Vietnamese are not capable of handling things themselves?

Dirty Lawrence Students Make Elderly Residents Sick

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

After reading The Post-Crescent Monday evening I could not resist writing about the college student hunger fast.

Forty years ago I came to Appleton. I remember how Appleton looked forward to Lawrence students coming back each year. We would park our car on College Avenue on Saturday nights when stores were open until 9. What a sight to see all those well-dressed young ladies and men, with their nice hairdos.

I went to the concert Sunday afternoon. On the lawn, what a sight and disgrace to the City of Appleton. Honestly, it just made me sick. Then they call themselves college students. Then to think one of the principals was the head promoter.

The boys who are fighting for these long hairdo burns. Boys over there don't have a chance to shower or see a tub, but I think they are a lot cleaner than.

I saw Sunday afternoon that goes for the young ladies, too. I didn't think we had such dirty educated students in Appleton.

Two boys answered my ad for an apartment. When they say they are college students, I'd be afraid to rent to them. Come on, young men and ladies, we have a great country. Please try to be real Americans. You don't realize how good you have it. Don't disgrace the city taxpayers more than you have.

Heart Disease May be Cause of Lung Fluid

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain the significance of "fluid on the lungs" I have had three heart attacks in 20-some years. Will this condition keep on, and is it considered serious? The doctor said this often occurs after a heart attack but not necessarily -- H.H.A.

There are two major types of fluid in the lungs. One is fluid in the pleural space just outside

This water-logging of tissues interferes with proper distribution of oxygen in the body, and hence difficulty in breathing.

After you have had three heart attacks (or even just one) there has been some damage to the heart. Therefore, steps should be taken to correct the situation as effectively as possible.

You want to increase heart efficiency for its own sake -- which will help get rid of the excess fluid. But you also want to get rid of the fluid because its presence puts added strain on the heart.

Therefore the usual -- and usually effective -- treatment will involve two methods. Digitalis is used to increase the efficiency of the heart, and diuretic drugs are given to help the body release these trapped fluids.

As I said, this accumulation of fluid occurs after many heart attacks, but not after all. The amount of interference caused by a heart attack will vary.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband says cirrhosis of the liver and cancer of the liver are the same. I think they are different. Would you straighten this out? -- M.J.

Both (of course) mean serious damage to the liver, but they are totally different diseases. (Cancer can occur in a cirrhotic liver.)

Note to Mrs. E. F. Laetle: Since you ask, I have found no reason to think it has any value. The U.S. Government does not permit its shipment across state borders. If someone smuggles it, he does so at his own risk. I would have nothing to do with it.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble -- symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery -- write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Intelligencer, for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dr. Thosteson

the lungs. The other is fluid accumulated in the lung tissue proper.

Either or both can occur if, for one reason or another, the heart is not up to par. (In the case of fluid in the pleural space, other possible causes are faulty circulation, or irritation of the lining of the pleura from such conditions as tuberculosis, pneumonia, or tumor.)

Anyway, to limit this to cases of heart disease, if heart action is sluggish or inefficient, the rate at which blood flows is retarded.

With this less brisk flow, congestion occurs. You might describe it as similar to the congestion, or slowing up, that happens when there is an accident on a heavily-traveled highway.

In such circumstances, some of the fluid exudes from the blood vessels, and instead of being briskly carried back to the heart for oxygenation and recirculation, this fluid seeps into the surrounding tissues. This happens principally in the liver, lungs, and extremities, especially feet, legs and ankles. Other terms for this accumulation of fluid are edema or "dropsy".

Whether this condition continues indefinitely depends on the strength of heart action, and whether it can be sufficiently improved.

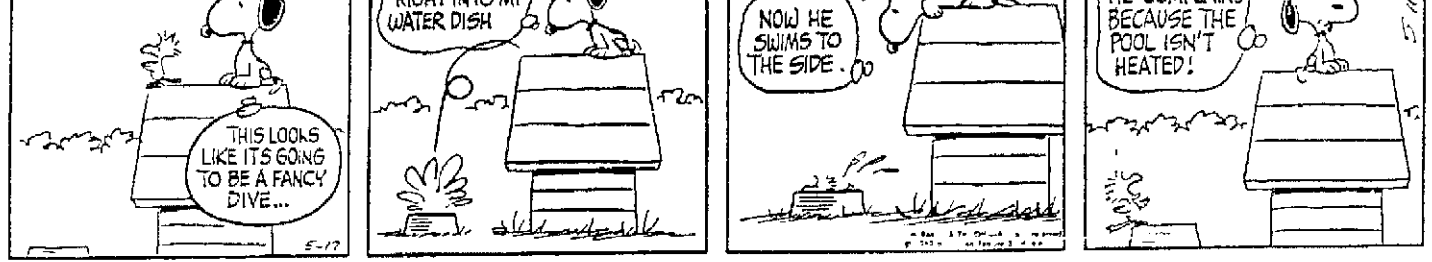

Whether you call it "serious" depends on the degree of it. But in any case it is undesirable.

Turn Flat Limestone Rock Into a South Seas 'Island'

BY CAPPY DICK

A miniature South Seas island is fun to build on a flat limestone rock. A rock about nine inches wide will be of satisfactory size. With household cement that is used to mend dishes, glue some small shells around the edge of the rock to form a coral shoreline as in figure 1.

Fill the top of the rock within this rim with black earth and in it plant small ferns, little marsh plants that look like elm trees and anything else that reminds you of the vegetation you have seen in pictures of South Sea islands. Figure 3 shows the effect you should strive to achieve.

The thatched huts can be represented by large pecans. The point end of the nut is to be pressed into the earth. Glue some dried grass blades to the other end (figure 2) to make the thatched roof. Carve a hole in the shell for a door.

Sprinkle sand along the shore to represent paths. Place the little village in sunlight and water it occasionally. The vegetation may grow all Summer if there is enough rich soil on the rock.

Monday: Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

the firm to add the Riviera casino and hotel.

Finley purchased his stock last month after the Gaming Control Board ruled that a Swiss investment group, FOF Proprietary Funds, Ltd., couldn't keep its piece of the firm because it had other gambling interests in the Bahamas.

Parvin-Dohrmann officials declined to announce who bought the FOF stock, but the Nevada Gaming Control Board's records showed Friday that the biggest single purchaser was Finley at 30,000 shares.

Worth $2.7 Million

The firm's officials said last month the shares were sold at $90 each, resulting in a purchase of $2.7 million for holdings of Finley's size.

Coleman filed a report with the SEC last month listing 207,300 shares owned or held through a trust or corporation. At Friday's closing price on the American Stock Exchange, they would be worth $21.6 million.

SEC files show Bartholomay and Louis each owned 2,000 shares when nominated for the board of directors of Parvin-Dohrmann last December.

Insurance Executive

Bartholomay is a Chicago insurance executive. So is Finley. Louis is chairman of Combined Communications Corp., Phoenix, Ariz.

The American Stock Exchange has halted trading in Parvin-Dohrmann stock twice in the last two months. The SEC permitted trading of the stock to resume May 12 after the latest suspension of almost a week.

Coleman announced Thursday he had begun talks with National General Corp. concerning its possible acquisition of Parvin-Dohrmann. But he emphasized that the talks "are only exploratory."

Peruvians Seize, Release Third U.S. Fishing Boat

LIMA (AP) — Peru seized its third U.S. fishing boat this year, but released it Friday after the captain paid $15,000 in fees and fines. The incident put further strain on relations between the two countries already damaged by appropriation of U.S.-owned oil properties last October.

U.S. Embassy sources in Lima said the tuna clipper Western King, owned by Peter Pan Caribe, Inc., of Seattle, Wash., was captured by a Peruvian torpedo boat 25 miles off the coast and taken to the port of Talera, northwest of Lima.

A communique from the Peruvian Naval Ministry said the Western King was "fishing illegally at 19 miles offshore." It said Peruvian sailors boarded the U.S. ship and took her to Talera.

Several Fines

The ship's captain, Nick Tuitanic, paid $500 for Peruvian registry, $4,500 for a fishing license and about $10,000 in other fines and said he planned to leave before dark.

Peruvian torpedo boats captured other U.S. tuna boats March 19 and Feb. 14. They also fired on a fourth U.S. boat in February but it got away.

The basis for such seizures is a Peruvian claim that her jurisdiction in the rich fishing waters extends 200 miles offshore.

The capture of the Western King came a few hours after U.S. and Peruvian officials in Washington concluded talks on the fishing rights dispute and Peru's expropriation of International Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

It was also learned in Washington that the United States has suspended military aid to Peru because of the earlier seizures. Military aid has run about $11 million a year.

U.S. officials said the military aid was cut off several weeks ago without announcement so as not to jeopardize talks between the two governments.

These talks have been going on since last month. Under U.S. law, expropriation of U.S. property is supposed to result in a halting of all foreign aid in six months.

The six-month period for the oil property takeover was up in early April, and President Nixon dispatched John Irwin, a Wall Street lawyer, to begin negotiations. It was decided to extend the deadline until August pending further negotiations in Washington.

There was no report of any progress in the disputes in the talks that ended Friday.

Priest 'Proud' Of Burning Draft Card

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Members of the "Milwaukee 14" told a Circuit Court jury Friday they consider burglary, arson and theft charges stemming from an antiwar demonstration to be of no particular consequence in the face of Vietnam war issues.

"I hope to prove that the action I did—and, I emphasize, I did—was probably the proudest moment of my life," said Father James W. Harney, 28, of Cambridge, Mass.

"I'm not a party to a crime, but a party to an act of humanity," Harney said.

He and the 13 other members of the "Milwaukee 14," five of them Roman Catholic clergymen, were arrested Sept. 24 as they gathered around a fire made of records taken moments earlier from a Selective Service office.

Twelve are on trial. Two more have been granted separate trials on state charges. All 14, and a 15th man who led newsmen to the scene, face subsequent action on federal charges.

5,000 Degrees to be Awarded UW Students

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin will hand out more than 5,000 degrees at a single commencement for the first time in its history. The school announced Friday.

Degrees, including bachelor and higher honors, will be presented to 4,300 students on the Madison campus and 1,450 at Milwaukee in June.

spaceship, recovery forces, launch operations and weather.

Dr. Charles Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, said the spacemen had no signs of illness and "they appear to be well rested."

Donald K. Slayton, an astronaut who is director of flight crew operations, reported Stafford, Young and Cernan are "in good shape and ready to go."

For three days, the astronauts are to soar outwards across trackless space, zeroing in on their distant target, 237,000 miles away. As they zip behind the moon's backside, they'll fire themselves into an orbit 69 miles above the surface.

Halfway through their 2½-day orbit of the moon, Stafford and Cernan are to transfer to a lunar module, or LEM, tacked to the command ship nose. They'll detach the spidery vehicle and execute a series of maneuvers that twice will take them 9.3 miles above the site where Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin hope to land July 20.
